

ORDERS FOR COAL MEET PROMPT U. S. RESPONSE

No Over-Sunday Activities Reported by State Fuel Administration.

ATTEND TO EMERGENCY CALLS

Many Industries Approaching End of Their Supplies, but With Increased Output in Newly Opened Mines, Shortage May Be Met.

Beyond attending to emergency calls for coal by public utilities there were no activities over Sunday by the State fuel administration. It is stated that orders for coal are meeting a more prompt response by the Federal fuel administration in Washington, and that the needs of the State are being met with dispatch.

Many industries are approaching the end of their supply of fuel, but it is believed that, with the increased output in the newly reopened mines in the Middle West, relief from the pressure on the nonunion fields in West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, there will be coal enough if the railroads can haul it.

Speculation as to the future of coal distribution depends, therefore, on the national outlook. Measures have been considered, looking to curtailment of ornamental and advertising use of electric current, as was done during the war, but regulation of this sort, including possible closing of theaters, will await developments.

Empire State Solves Meets

The New York Legislature meets in extraordinary session tonight, having been called by Governor Miller to pass measures regulating the maximum retail prices of coal and to provide appropriations for State fuel administration. New York newspapers forecast a session of not more than twenty-four hours' duration, in which Governor Miller's bills will be passed. It is regarded as not impossible that the priority orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission may be modified a little, by providing for the shipment of run-of-mine coal for domestic purposes. Carrying of coal for domestic use by the railroads is now limited to dealers of lump coal, consigned to depots, which has passed through a mesh of not smaller than four inches.

Anthracite Coal Scarce

Since it seems that, at best, the supply of anthracite coal will be very scarce throughout the winter, and if the hard coal mines are not reopened there will be none at all, it is evident that the use of anthracite must be limited to the most essential. At present are indisposed to make any prepared sizes, preferring to sell run-of-mine rather than to screen at the Hooper's price of only 25 cents per ton additional. The situation has brought about a demand for the shipment of bituminous run-of-mine for domestic purposes, and it is believed that the State in connection with the September program of the leagues known as "Better School Month."

ARTHUR DAWSON, ARTIST, DIES HERE

Mr. Dawson was making headway as one of the greatest painters and as one of the keenest art connoisseurs in the country. He went to New York in 1895, where he was elected member of the Lotus Club. He was medalist of the Buffalo Exposition for oil painting and official portrait painter for the West Point Military Academy, where there are nine official portraits by him.

Mr. Dawson had charge of the restoration of paintings belonging to the New York Public Library. He was a communicant in the Episcopal Church.

EASTERN SHORE SWEET POTATO YIELD IS POOR

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CAPE CHARLES, VA., Aug. 27.—The movement of sweet potatoes from the Eastern Shore has been slow so far this season, notwithstanding that the average is much heavier than last year, this principally being due to the poor yield from the start of the season and the present price of the crop. The movement of sweet potatoes from the Eastern Shore is slow, and it is believed that the State in connection with the September program of the leagues known as "Better School Month."

(By Associated Press.)

ROODHOUSE, Ill., Aug. 27.—No trains have been moved out of Roodhouse, over the Chicago and Alton road, since 8:45 a. m. last night, when the company officials announced a train that left for Roodhouse.

Chicago and Alton employees who have refused to take out trains, claiming conditions have been "unsafe" and a meeting here today, but said afterward there was no statement to be given out. Besides the shop crafts, there have been on strike, other unions not working in the yards. The firemen, trainmen and clerks are not working because they claim they have no qualified firemen. Conductors say they are ready to take out trains if crews are provided.

EDUCATION BODY TO AID "WHITE PLAGUE" FIGHT

Kiwanis Clubs Also Will Do Their Part in This Campaign in Virginia.

The Co-Operative Education Association has been requested by the Virginia Tuberculosis Association to co-operate in a definite way in fighting the "white plague" in the State. Through the courtesy of the Kiwanis Club posters nine by twelve feet, have been prepared for putting up throughout Virginia. Where there are Kiwanis Clubs they are handling this matter, but in other places the Community Leagues have been asked to do the work. This entails in many instances the building of large billboards, but the Community Leagues have been asked to do this work. Cards asking that this work be done were sent out a few days ago, and to date 435 posters have been requested by Community Leagues.

Dr. John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, has written a special message to the 1,600 Community Leagues, congratulating them upon the constructive work of the association. By Tigert's word, "Virginia is to be congratulated upon having such an organization as the Co-Operative Education Association which has already done so much for the people of this State and is planning still greater things for the future."

Dr. Tigert writes the leagues that the worst possible investment in any school is a poorly educated, ill-prepared teacher. Not only is she an economic waste to the State, but the time and opportunity of the child is frittered away to his everlasting loss. The urgency of the school term, irregularity of attendance, poorly equipped one-room schools, all these things must be considered and remedies found for them if the child in the country is to be given an opportunity for education at all comparable with that of the city child. Equality of educational opportunities, if it means anything, means that the child living in the country have just as good an opportunity for the kind and degree of education that will best fit him or her for successful living as the child in the city has.

Dr. Tigert's message is being mailed to all the leagues of the State in connection with the September program of the leagues known as "Better School Month."

PRIMARIES TOMORROW ARE CENTER OF STAGE

publican camps, and a record primary vote is expected Tuesday. There are some 500,000 registered Republicans in California, with about 400,000 registered Democrats and between 150,000 and 200,000 voters who have not stated their party preference. Johnson, who has been carrying on a vigorous personal campaign, is regarded as fighting as never before for his political future, but is expected, by nonpartisan observers, to win.

Democrats Name Farmer

The Democratic senatorial candidate who will be nominated is William J. Pearson, a farmer, and the farmers of the State are preparing to conduct a vigorous campaign in his behalf regardless of who is the Republican nominee.

The California contest will be decided largely on the personality of Senator Johnson, the issues of the campaign having been largely local, with the possible exception of his vote on the four-power Pacific treaty.

The Maine election, perhaps, commands wider interest for two reasons:

1. The Republicans, wishing to make a clean sweep of their state, from Senator Hale down, because of the psychological effect of this early election on the balance of the general elections in November, are turning loose on Maine all their big speaking guns from both the House and Senate.

2. Because of both the number and personality of the speakers the House and Senate between now and September 11 will be deprived of the services of many of its ablest members, who will always can be counted upon to follow the administration.

Stamp State Thoroughly

Vice-President Coolidge, Wednesday morning, will drive in the Maine campaign with a speech at Roodhouse. Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, will be in Maine this week campaigning for Senator Hale, and among others who are going to the State on behalf of the Republican congressional delegation, are Senators Pepper, McCormick, Edger, Leonard, Willis, Watson, of Indiana; Jones, of Washington, and Harrell, of Oklahoma. Numerous members of the lower House also have been enlisted. Hale is being opposed by G. C. Curtis, Democrat, of Portland.

Were it not for the attitude of political leaders, this withdrawal of Republican Senators for political purposes might create some alarm. It is a fact, however, that the Republican National Committee is strongly opposed to passage of the bonus bill at this time, and Chairman Adams of the committee is said to have personally urged upon President Harding the repeal of the industrial agency of any drastic industrial legislation such as that empowering seizure of the mines or railroads, before the elections. Republican spokesmen are therefore, not upset at any withdrawal of the congressional rank and file that might contribute to delay action on the proposed Federal control bill.

Will Teach in Porto Rico

LYNCHBURG, VA., Aug. 27.—Information has been received here that Miss Jean Roy, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Elizabeth Smith, of Louisville, 1922 graduates of the Richmond-Macon Women's College, will teach during the coming school year in Porto Rico.

TRAINING OF TEACHERS RELATED BY MISS GREGG

Speech of Board of Education's Superintendent Broadcasted by WBAB.

How Virginia trains her teachers was broadcast from The Times-Dispatch radio station recently by Miss Rachel E. Gregg, superintendent of teacher training for the State Board of Education. Miss Gregg's talk is as follows:

"Virginia has four normal schools for white teachers and one normal school for colored teachers, whose principal business is to train teachers for the elementary schools. Four hundred and fifty-one white teachers and fifty-four colored teachers graduated from these schools in June. According to a signed contract, these teachers must teach in Virginia public schools for two years. In addition to these schools the State maintains the University of Virginia, the College of William and Mary, and the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The State pays the tuition of all Virginia teachers in these institutions. From these institutions a large number of high school teachers, principals, supervisors and superintendents are trained. The non-State support of these institutions is about 50 per cent of the high school teachers in the State. The teachers of vocational agriculture and other vocational subjects are trained at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. For training teachers of home economics, under the Smith-Hughes act, the State has designated the College of William and Mary and Harrisonburg State Normal School. At these places the young women have a four years' college course leading to a B. S. degree in home economics. The State gives financial assistance also to Hampton Institute for tuition of the colored teachers of Virginia."

"In addition to the regular session of nine months, all of these schools, with the exception of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, maintain a twelve weeks' summer quarter. During this summer there were 8,762 teachers in attendance at these schools; 6,872 of these were white and 1,890 were colored teachers. With the assistance of the General Education Board the State operated five colored institutes for six weeks in addition to the twelve weeks' session at Hampton Institute and Virginia Normal and Industrial Institute."

"The State indirectly trains the teachers of Virginia through requiring them to meet the standards set up for certificates or licenses. These requirements are increased from time to time as the general condition in the State will permit. The academic and professional requirements for many certificates have been increased 33 1/3 per cent, of others, 100 per cent, over the State requirements of 1918. In spite of these facts there are more teachers qualifying under the new regulations. As evidence of this the records show 6,224 new certificates issued in 1921 as compared with 5,152 new certificates issued in 1918. During the years of 1918 and 1919 there was a shortage of 3,000 qualified teachers for the public schools. In 1922, in spite of the increased requirements for certification and with approximately 2,000 additional places to be filled, the present indications are that each school room may be taught by a qualified teacher if a proper distribution of teachers could be effected."

LEG BONE IS FOUND IN FREDERICKSBURG

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

FREDERICKSBURG, VA., Aug. 27.—The amputated right leg bone, believed to be of a Civil War soldier, was excavated Saturday by City Health Officer J. N. Barney in his back yard. The reason assigned for the bone belonging to a soldier is that it was twice amputated, about four inches below the knee. It is known that the house adjoining Dr. Barney's property was used as a hospital as were several churches and other residences during battles in this section, and especially the battle of the Wilderness, when the house was used by General Grant's men.

SEES 100 INDICTMENTS IN HERRIN MASSACRE

(By Associated Press.)

MARION, Ill., Aug. 27.—The Williamson County grand jury, which will investigate the Herrin massacre, has neither ordered coal miner nor coal operator among its members, said Attorney-General Edward J. Brundage, who, accompanied by Assistant United States Attorney-General C. M. Middlekauff, reached Carbondale this morning and then made the trip to Marion by way of Herrin, the scene of the massacre of June 21 and 22, where twenty-six miners were killed or fatally wounded. Mr. Brundage announced that, in his opinion, the evidence was conclusive and should lead to the issuance of indictments. County officials predicted that upward of 100 indictments would be voted.

STREET WORK DEPENDS ON ACTION OF AINSLIE

Papers Adopted by Both Branches of Council Are Forwarded to Him.

City Clerk Alf H. McDowell has forwarded to Mayor Ainslie a number of papers adopted by both branches of City Council, several of which pertain to local street improvements. The Mayor will probably return the papers today. The Board of Aldermen will tomorrow night act upon a resolution appropriating funds for the purchase of a silver set for the United States cruiser Richmond, which will appear in the James River early in October, it is believed, and with the Mayor's signature to this bill the work of the present City Council will have reached its end.

Among the papers to be passed upon by Mayor Ainslie are two companion ordinances designed to promote the development of a section of South Richmond in the vicinity of Delaware Avenue and Ninth Street. These ordinances permit the closing of certain sections of traffic, the opening of others and the operation of a siding by the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company.

A resolution appropriating $500 for use in the pending investigation of traction affairs and conditions, proposed a force of sixteen men for ten days in making a survey of traffic conditions, and an ordinance authorizing the Director of Public Safety to erect a fire-alarm station in Monroe Park, also before the Mayor. The proposed fire-alarm station is to take the place of the wooden park house in the center of the park, and an ornamental building, is to be the size of the present park house.

A resolution appropriating $1,500 for building a new building in the Tract, Highland Park, and another acquiring land to open and extend an alley north from Semmes Street, Delaware Avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, will also be acted upon by the Mayor.

An appropriation recently provided for movies in the city parks will be partially diverted, so that band concerts may also be provided. If a resolution as thus amended is approved by the Mayor, when the resolution of the General Education Board is adopted, the Community Recreation Association and Park Superintendent Calder, the idea of band concerts was suggested, yet through some error in cross-indexing the provision for music was omitted. The original appropriation is not increased.

Mr. Adams has called the Board of Aldermen to meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The Advertising Committee will hold its final meeting tonight.

History Repeats in River Project

Citizens' Body Named Fifty Years Ago to Urge Improvement.

"By an interesting coincidence," said Business Manager "Bill" Dabney, of the Chamber of Commerce, last night, "the chamber, just fifty years ago to the day, got together and named a committee of five to urge in conjunction with a similar committee of City Council, to urge the Federal government to get busy on James River development. That just shows how long it takes to do such things. Here it has been half a century, and we have just thought of naming a citizens' committee to help us. If my memory is right, the old Council Committee on Shockoe Creek Improvement started functioning just about that time."

K. A. KEITHLY QUILTS DIVISION OF MARKETS

Accepts Management of Live-Stock Shipping Association—Succeeded Here by W. P. Sadler.

K. A. Keithly, who has been with the Division of Agriculture for the past twenty months, as specialist in marketing live stock and wool, has resigned the position to take up the management of the Washington Co-Operative Live-Stock Shipping Association, Abingdon, Va. Previous to January, 1921, very little live stock produced in Virginia was ever sold co-operatively. Since that time, by co-operation of county agents, farm organizations and seventeen co-operative live-stock shipping associations have been organized that function in part, or all of twenty-six counties. Some of these associations are already shipping out of the territory covered by them; others are growing rapidly and this method of marketing, which has proved so economical in the Western States, is gradually solving the big problems producers have been confronted with in disposing of their live stock. Much interest has been manifested in this work in the State, 90 per cent of this year's clip, loaded through the pools, is being properly prepared for the market against 10 per cent last year, and the growers have received at least 5 cents per pound increase in price on account of the activity of pools in the State.

Mr. Keithly's services have proved very valuable to the live-stock producers of Virginia, and his continuing in this work in the State is gratifying to those who have been closely associated with him. Very little slack in this work is anticipated, as the Division of Markets has secured the services of W. P. Sadler to take it up at the same time Mr. Keithly's resignation takes effect, September 15. Mr. Sadler is a graduate of V. P. I., and has had a wide experience in feeding and marketing live stock as well as having studied some of the larger markets of this country. As county agent he directed the feeding of the largest number of prize heaves that took the largest number of prizes in the State. He will visit several Central Western States and observe the co-operative live-stock shipping associations there, as well as the terminal markets where co-operative shipments are sold and central wool pools prior to taking up active work in Virginia.
